Entries are pouring in fast for The Evening World's Dawn-of-the-Century Race from The World's Harlem office, in West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street, to the Pulitzer Building, Park Row, next Monday at midnight.

People prominent in every walk of life have already shown a desire to try for the prizes offered. The athlete, the cyclist and the automobilist are only a few of the many who have already begun preparations for the great event.

Prominent among the entries received to-day is that of Eva Mudge, the clever little comedienne, whose successful debut as a chauffeur at the recent Garden show won for her the title of "the Lady of the Automobile." Miss Mudge can run an auto like an expert engineer and knows no fear; the electric, the gasoline and the steam propelled machines all look alike to her.

Miss Mudge, of course, has her own wagon, and with it she thinks she can easily win one of The Evening World's prizes. Her machine is of the newest design and is one of the very few in this country that can travel 125 miles in one charge. She says she will go into training for the race.

Among other entries for the big race are Eddie McDuffie, the champion cyclist, who has beaten Jimmy Michael and other middle-distance cranks; Theodore M. Roche, a motor cyclist of note; Pete Hegelman, the champion six-day runner, and Gus Guerrero, the twenty-four-hour walker.

McDuffie says he will use the motor cycle in this race and is sure of landing first prize with it. Roche is of the opinion that his machine is the fastest made and says the new century's race will prove it.

Among the entries received before 8 o'clock this morning were the following:

Vehicle.

Miss Eva Mudge (automobile), 215 West Eighty-first street.
Theodore M. Roche (automobile), 265 Broadway.

** ENTRY BLANK. **

NEW YORK, Dec. 27, 1900.

To the Twentieth Century Race Editor Evening World:

Please enter my name as a contestant in the TWENTIETH CENTURY FOOT (OR VEHICLE) RACE from Harlem to The World's downtown office, Pulitzer Building.

Name.....

Address.....

*Cross out "Foot" or "Vehicle," as the case requires.

MISS EVA MUDGE.

This photograph of Miss Mudge was taken as she sat in her own auto, in which she will race from Harlem to the Pulitzer Building next Tuesday.

HOW THE RACE WILL BE RUN

Every detail for the success of the race has been completed. "At the stroke of midnight the races will be started. At 11 o'clock, known to every sporting man in town, will be the start.

"It's encouragement for the athlete," he said, "and for the manufacturer of the fast going vehicle as well as for the horseman. I'm glad to assist in such a thing and I will be at the Harlem office of The World to start the race."

Every one can select any course. The contestants must call in at The World's uptown office at Thirty-sixth street and Broadway and there hand a slip, given out at the Harlem office to each starter registered. Probably Sam See, one of the best known timekeepers in America, will be at the uptown office to register runners, riders and drivers as they call. At the finish "Charley White" will be present, ready to count the victors as they spin in a wheel, about, on horseback or any other way they choose to come in.

Entries should be sent to "Twentieth Century Race Editor, Evening World, P.O. Box 2,254, New York City." Fill out the blank that is printed with this article and send it by mail on or before Friday night, Dec. 28.

Remember there will be two distinct races—one free-for-all, in which any kind of vehicle may be used, and the other a foot race.

The Prizes.

For the free-for-all sort-of-transportation race there will be $75 in prizes.
First prize..... $50
Second prize..... $15
Third prize..... $10

For the foot race there will be $75 in prizes.
First prize..... $50
Second prize..... $15
Third prize..... $10

Make up your mind to enter for one of the races and send in your entry before Friday night.

FLEE FOR LIFE AT HOTEL FIRE.

Guests in Barclay Street Hostelry in a Panic.

Fire in Fogg's Hotel, 36 Barclay and 141 West streets, caused a panic early to-day among the forty-three guests, most of whom escaped to the street in their night clothes. Many of them were women.

Arthur Smith, an employee of the hotel, was awakened by smoke shortly after 2.30. His room was on the second floor, next to a closet under the stairs. He opened the door of the closet and was driven back by a volume of flame and smoke.

Without waiting to dress he ran down stairs to the restaurant and notified Frank Kelly, the night clerk, who immediately turned in an alarm.

Smith then roused the guests, who rushed from their rooms screaming. The women on the West street side crowded the fire-escapes, and one woman was with difficulty restrained from jumping to the street.

The hotel extends to West street and has a long and narrow hall. This hall was filled with dense smoke. Charles Sheats, an employee of Washington Market, who lives in the hotel, saw Mrs. Kelly, a guest, dashing frantically about the corridor on the West street side, and leading her to the fire-escape, carried her down to West street. Samuel Hamilton carried down his wife, who had fainted.

Chief Croker responded to the alarm, and the six engines soon put out the flames.

Policemen Nesbit, Silk and O'Brien, of the Church street station, assisted the guests in getting out. No one was hurt and the fire was confined chiefly to the stairway and the adjoining closet. The damage was about $50.

TEUTONIC IN ONE DAY LATE.

White Star Liner Encountered Heavy Head Winds.

The White Star steamship Teutonic, a day overdue, arrived in port to-day after a hard battle with adverse winds, which she weathered without mishap.

The main deck of the Teutonic was black with passengers as she warped into her dock at the foot of West Tenth street at 11 o'clock. On the pier was a crowd waiting impatiently to greet friends, who waved hats and handkerchiefs over the railing. Everybody was happy and cries of "Merry Christmas," "Happy New Year," were heard above the shouting commands of the ship's officers and the boss stewards.

As soon as the big steamer was sighted the news was flashed to this city and the time given of her probable docking. There was unusual interest in the arrival of the Teutonic because she brought the belated foreign holiday mail—tons of it.

Among the passengers were: Alfred C. Harnsworth, owner and editor of the London Daily Mail; Montague Barlow, Dr. Horace T. Brown, Mr. Walter H. Chamberlain, Mr. John Dwyer, Capt. W. F. Dean Douglas, Col. Grant, Mr. Niel Grom, Mr. Leigh Hunt, Mr. Leonard Lloyd, Mr. Rosinaud Nicholson, Hon. P. O'Reilly, Mr. Joseph P. Sullivan, Capt. L. Silverthorne, Mr. John C. Zimmerman, Edwin H. Lemare, Miss Maud Powell.

Capt. E. R. McKinstry said: "We had a pretty rough passage. I never saw such bad weather off the coast of Ireland but we came out all right and met with no mishap."

On Christmas Day a concert was given for the benefit of the orphans of seamen of Liverpool and New York and realized $100.

Miss Maud Powell, the violinist, and Edwin H. Lemare, the famous organist of St. Margaret's, of Westminster, took part in the concert.

Mr. Lemare and Miss Powell will give recitals in this country.

PHILBIN HAS A BUSY DAY.

Gives McIntyre and Sullivan Charge of Bellevue Case.

It was nearly noon before District Attorney Philbin arrived at his office in the Criminal Court Building to-day.

He had been to a funeral during the morning.

There were many persons awaiting him, but he disposed of his callers expeditiously. Then the members of the staff made their daily report.

Deputy Attorney-General Job E. Hedges was an early visitor at the District Attorney's office, but did not wait for Mr. Philbin. State Superintendent of Elections McCullough was also at the District Attorney's office this morning, but did not see Mr. Philbin.

Asked if he would make any changes in the staff to-day Mr. Philbin replied that he did not think so.

When he arrived at his office he immediately inquired of the secretary if the Coroner's examination into the Bellevue Hospital outrages was on.

When told it was assigned Assistant District Attorneys McIntyre and Sullivan to conduct the examination of the witnesses before the Coroner.
